Baby Tried to Kiss Him Through Wire Screen.

FATHER WAS UNMOVED

HALL TO APPOINT GUARDIAN THIS MORNING.

"'Bye, papa!"

"Good-bye, my boy."
Baby Elmer Rose placed his chubby hands against the fine wire screen stretched across the end of the corri-dor, and with his bright, innocent face ed hard against the fragile barrier. watched his father as he walked down the iron gallery to his penitentiary cell, enter it and close the door behind him. Deputy Sheriff Joseph Sharp picked the Aaby up in his arms and walked away. Deputy Sheriff Axel Steele gathered up from the foor in the room.

Rose Asks For His Son.

It was the final parting of father and son. The former went back to his cell to await the day when he will be taken out and shot to death for killing his wife on Cl ristmas afternoon, 1903. The boy was returned to Mrs. V. A. Stickney of the Home Finding association, who await id him in the warden's office calmly told the police he had shot and killed his wife.

The boy was too young to appreciate the soleranty of the occasion. Before he reached the door to the south cell house on his way out he had forgotten his father and, biting at an orange given him by Clerk Stowe, was chattering away about what he saw, or trivial, childish matters which came into his head. into his head.

Parting of Father and Son.

When he reached the warden's office Elmer seemed more pleased to see Mrs. Stickney than he did his own father. With a laugh he ran into her out-stretched arms, and putting both chubby arms around her neck, kissed her on the cheeks as she stooped down to eatch him. It was a vacation to him to take a ride in a street car and see

Rose asked to see his son, and Deputy Sheriffs Sharp and Steele took him out yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Stickney, Mrs. Stickney and Acting Warden Wright did not want to see the greeting for fear it might be emotion-able. Their apprehensions were ground-

When Elmer was placed on the floor in the room at the end of the corridor a fine wire screen separated him from his father. The latter was there to meet him. When Deputy Sheriff Steele asked the boy who that was looking at him, the baby replied, with a laugh: "I know papa."
And then he started to run around the room, holding the orange in one hand and a pencil in another. "Oh, let me take him in my arms," said the father.

request was denied him. A few minutes later Elmer walked up to where his father was peering at him putting his fat, rosy mouth up against the wires, attempted to kiss his father. Then, with a merry shout: "You can't eatch me, papa," ran to the other end

Lifting his head from his hands and peeping out, Elmer ran to the other end of the screen and cried out in childish

"Now you can't see me."

And the baby hid his face behind the MAYOR PARDONS SMITH.—Mayor Richard P. Morris yesterday pardoned Ramuel B. Smith out of the city jail, where he was serving a short sentence or being intoxicated. He was employed a driver on one of the garbage wagons TRADE IN SALE LAKE.—Bradstreet's which is being thoroughly improved under the management of the new own-lake City is as follows: "Spring orders steadily increasing in volume. Money in considerable demand by country borrowers until wool clip is marketed. Retailers report that this has been the most catisfactory week of the year. Collections are fair."

The sign looks innocent enough on the surface, but it is a quiet intimation to the safe-cracker that there is something new under the sun. A fire and burglar proof vault five stories in height will be placed in the building.

TURNING OFF WATER.—Superintendent of Waterworks Frank L. Hines yesterday gave instructions to his employes to turn off water on every citizen of Salt Lake City who is delinquent in his water tax. As a result of those orders a number of people in different parts of the city had no water yesterday until they paid their tax. aid their tax.

MRS. E. J. TREGEA DAD.—Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Tregea, wife of the well known mining man, died yesterday at the age of 49 at her late residence. 3 Kendall square. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from St. Mark's Episcopal church, on East First South street. The remains will be buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Deceased was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

INFORMATION WANTED.-Chief Wil-

to await t be day when he will be taken out and s hot to death for killing his wife on Cl ristmas afternoon, 1903. The boy was r sturned to Mrs. V. A. Stickney of the Home Finding association, who await d him in the warden's office of the Utal penitentiary. Today, at 11 o'clock, Judge William C. Hall will decide his destiny by announcing who shall have him to educate and rear.

Outwardly, Frank Rose was not in the least affected by the parting. When it came time to bid his son farewell, he simply said: "Good-bye, my boy." And, turning on his heel, walked with a steady tread down the iron corridor to his cell. There were no tears in the man's eyes; no expression of regret or sorrow. Outwardly, he was the same man who waked into the police station on the morning of Dec. 26, 1903, and calmly field the police he had shot and killed his wife.

The boy was too young to appreciate the solenwity of the occasion. Before he reached the door to the continuous continuous arrested vestered.

STOLE A CHICKEN.—James Kelly was arrested yesterday morning for stealing a chicken from a butcher shop on State and Second South streets. Officer Sullivan saw Kelly come rushing up State street trying to conceal something under his coat, which was causing him a great deal of trouble. When Kelly discovered that he was being watched by the officer, he stepped inside a saloon and hurried on through into the back alley. The theff was captured; after being chased through mud knee deep, in a narrow alley in Chinatown.

The old-timers, Barnabee as the Duke of Santa Cruz, MacDonald as Alvarado, and Frothingham as Gomez, were all releved with approval. The "Dreaming" ong of Barnabee, Frothingham and Miss dorrison in the last act was great. And he usual thing happened. The local spic that was awarded the third prize was the one that drew the most liberal applause. Miss Morrison gave it charmingly and that may have had something to do with the approval.

"Circumstantial Evidence." one of the best melodramas seen at the Grand this beast might. The story is based on a case of mistaken identity and it shows that even the most complete chains of circumstantial evidence are sometimes at fault. The various characters are nearly all in capable hands. Lawrence Evart's Lieutenant Arthur Cransford was applauded copiously, and Louis Bourne made a lot of merriment as Sheriff Smuige. "Circumstantial Evidence" will fill out the balance of the week at the Grand, with the usual Saturday matinee.

Destitute Circumstances.

Mrs. John Platt and her four children, living at 223 West Fourth North street, were found in destitute circumstances yesterday afternoon by Officer Charles Sperry. The mother is sick in bed and the children were crying for food.

Mrs. Platt lives in a two-roomed frame hut which is in a tumbled down condition, exposing the family to the wet and cold. The kitchen contains a broken stove, a table and two chairs. The other room is furnished with two beds, without matresses or springs, and only a few bed clothes.

"I have been sick for almost a week." said Mrs. Platt. "There has been nothing in the house to eat for three days. My 10-year-old boy is down on the Taliroad track picking up coal, and my boy y years old is selling papers, trying to earn enough money to bring home some bread for the children's supper. My husband has been looking for work for tendays. He went away day before yesterday and has not come back, but I expect to hear from him any minute saying he has found something to do."

Herr Stork has been unusually generous in his treatment of No. 4 Carless court, where yesterday he blessed two families in one house. Generally people feel that the stork has done his part when he brings joy to one household in one home, but in this instance the stork established a record that is believed to be tablished a record that is believed to b tablished a record that is beneved to be unique.

William N. Knapton and J. W. Clovis both live at No. 4 and the families of both men were increased yesterday, within one hour, by the addition of a son. From the romantic standpoint it might be regretted that one of the babies was not a girl, so that they could grow up as playmates and later or, marry, but as it is the families are well ontent and grateful to the good stork that has seen fit to honor their abode in this extraordinary way.
